

I am strongly against introducing interactive television into children's programs. They are not intellectually able to realize that the aim of these advertisements is to SELL them a product. They also tend to believe everything they hear and see in television